

Rich Again

7 DAILY DEVOTIONS TO ATTRACT ABUNDANCE

www.ProctorGallagherInstitute.com

INTRODUCTION

The purpose of these devotions is to help guide your thinking to thoughts of abundance that can break the chains of lack and inadequacy that bind you.

At first that might sound far-fetched, but it happens because every thought we think creates form on some level. A simple thought that seems trivial carries within it the power to move mountains. Nothing—no money, no technology, no business—can match the power we wield by simply using our mind for the purpose of creating our desires.

What follows are seven readings. Reading one each day encourages you to stay focused on abundance and reduce thoughts of lack, scarcity, fear, and anxiety.

After you've read each message, we recommend that you return to Day 1 and repeat the process again, and then again. It is this daily choice to think about abundance that determines what comes into your life.

As you read each devotion, allow your mind to go to beautiful places and understand that everything you can see on the screen of your mind, you can manifest in your material world. If you can hold it in your head, you can hold it in your hand.

DAY 1

I choose to dwell in the universe of abundance.

Today I may encounter many reasons to think my needs or desires will not be met. I may judge or blame others or myself for my circumstances.

I can dwell within that universe—a universe of scarcity—or I can choose again.

There is another world—a truer world—where only abundance exists. In this world, there is no scarcity or lack, but rather an endless supply for all. This is the universe I choose to dwell in.

DAY 2

With every breath, I breathe in love and abundance.

I am a child of the universe, a thought in the mind of God, forever surrounded and sustained by the substance of Divine Mind.

Endless love, prosperity, and abundance are available to me, whenever I remember who I am.

I open my mind today to the remembrance of my true nature and the nature of the universe. I open my mind and I open my eyes today to the abundance that is all around me.

With every breath, I drink in the spiritual substance that infuses all things.

DAY 3

Today I recognize the abundance that surrounds me.

How often do I not notice the abundance all around me, or honor all the kindness shown me, or allow myself to fully embrace the good that's in my life?

Today I see through a different set of eyes so that I will recognize the beauty and abundance all around. I see the abundance of trees, leaves, and grass. I see water flowing in streams, flowers blooming, and animals scurrying. I see the sparkle of light that surrounds all things.

I recognize that the only limits in my life are the limits I place on my own imagination. Today I recognize the richness of life.

DAY 4

I meet limited circumstances with unlimited thoughts.

The world is changeable, but the truth is not. I hold to the truth of who I really am and how the universe operates, despite my current results.

Where there appears to be lack in the material world, I proclaim the infinite abundance of the spiritual universe.

Today I meet limits with the thinking of unlimited possibility. Whatever occurs, I remember that great change is possible regardless of circumstance. I proclaim an abundance of love, health, and financial riches, and I am so grateful that they are all mine.

DAY 5

As I focus on abundance, my fear of not having enough recedes.

I recognize that as I focus on something, all evidence to the contrary begins to recede from my awareness.

So, if I'm looking for the positive, I won't notice the negative. If I'm looking for the negative, I won't notice the positive.

The vision of a world of abundance costs me the vision of a world of lack, and the vision of a world of lack costs me the vision of a world of abundance.

Today I focus on a world of happiness and prosperity and all else fades away.

DAY 6

My true self is a magnet for good.

My paradigm tells me I can prosper, but only if I work hard enough. I grasp, I scramble, yet ultimately very little, if anything, changes.

Increasing my awareness is my salvation. Aligning with the spirit that is flowing to and through me is like a magnet that draws all good things to me.

I let go my efforts at trying to fix my world and instead focus my attention on filling my mind with truth and light so I attract all the good that I desire.

DAY 7

What I appreciate appreciates.

Today I appreciate all the blessings in my life. I do not take for granted all the wonderful things that I have. I fill my heart with gratitude.

I appreciate my abundance. I know that as I do, my abundance will appreciate. May I use all that I have for a greater good—to bless others as it blesses me.

For more than half a century, Bob Proctor has been the foremost authority in the personal and professional development field. He has dedicated his adult life to helping a world of individuals realize and act on the greatness they already possess within themselves. He's widely regarded as the grandfather of personal development, and when it comes to mastering the mind – he is simply the best.

After meeting Bob Proctor, Sandy Gallagher, an esteemed banking attorney, created Thinking into Results – the most powerful corporate transformational program of its kind. Sandy is now the Co-Founder and CEO of Proctor Gallagher Institute. A genius businesswoman and visioneering expert committed to improving the conscious awareness of the entire world, one individual at a time.

